

HeliMods

When you work in aerospace engineering, there's no room for error. HeliMods continues to benefit from the Sunshine Coast's unique characteristics in attracting and maintaining its team of highly skilled engineers and advanced technology workers.

HeliMods services the global helicopter market from their world class, purpose-built facility at Caloundra Airport. By leveraging advanced design and manufacturing techniques and the technical expertise held within its multinational team, HeliMods continues to deliver globally significant innovation to the international helicopter market.

As far as HeliMods is concerned, there is no question as to why they maintain their HQ on the Sunshine Coast:

- An airport location close to everything with room to grow and invest.
- A superior lifestyle location targeted by knowledge and technology workers.
- A progressive local government that understands the importance of supporting and developing high value industries.
- Easy access to an international airport.

HeliMods welcomes other globally significant organisations who wish to provide their workforce with the all the advantages the Sunshine Coast has to offer.
